

Apogee Custom Components

A Custom Component is a control that allows the user to create his own custom component, complete with a display defined with HTML and javascript.

In Apogee, it is also possible to make your own component in javascript and import it into the program as well as share it with others. That type of component is not covered here.

FINISH THIS!

